GRADE NINE

Some lessons you learn the hard way.

CineCoup front-running film battles for $1 million

In a violent small town high school in 1989, a geeky teen and his comrades navigate the complexities of violence, friendship and Dungeons & Dragons.

Brought to life by the Cinecoup film Accelerator, a disruptive model for indie filmmakers to develop, market, and finance their feature films, Grade Nine continues to captivate online audiences, leading the popularity tables and taking social media by storm.

This timely and poignant comedic drama explores the nature of social hierarchy and challenges the way we look at bullying and youth violence.

You are invited to come meet our team and other Vancouver CineCoup teams at our live event:
