LOGLINE: In a few years, the world will enter a new age. With the greatest advancement in travel since the steam engine: working teleporters. But the devil is in the details.

STORY: Everyone knows where they were the day the rain came, the rain they say brought the flu. Harvey Daniels had scored the biggest break of his career. Ashley Daniels had just been fired. Chester Daniels was giving up a very old grudge. And Bradley Orso was expanding the already global proliferation of his revolutionary travel creation: working teleporters. But little do they all know that the world is about to be swept by a frightening epidemic of Orso's making. Could a shocking secret about Orso's teleporters be the cure the world needs? Or will the world lose its grip so totally on reality that one man will be pushed to unspeakable violence and another into the hardest choice of his life.
