LOGLINE:

A team of documentary filmmakers investigating a controversial missing persons case involving a young woman, an entertainment company, and an abandoned mental asylum; descend into madness when the lines blur between the supernatural and reality.

SYNOPSIS:

On June 6, 1985 Hellmington Asylum closed their doors for good. On June 6, 2009 it was re-opened as the very first "Psychological Extreme Haunted Asylum". Participants would be pushed to their limits, living out their own personal horror fantasies. Katie Owens; a true horror fanatic and blogger was invited as one of the first people to partake in the Hellmington experience. That was seven years ago, and her disappearance remains unsolved. After years with no progress, documentary filmmakers start to uncover the facts and begin a downward spiral into Katie's past...where the lines between reality and the supernatural begin to blur.
