A Western/Horror/Fantasy film in production
A film by King-Pin Lei – the award-winning director of Killing Schrodinger's Cats.

The Necroslinger

A Necroslinger is a master sorcerer trained in the ways of the Gunsmith Arcana – the science of ballistics merged with the art of magic.

Synopsis

The Necroslinger is set in a post apocalyptic future where magic and monsters return to a new world devastated by past world wars. Only a fraction of humanity exists, living now as people did in the Old West of the 1800s.

This is the story of a mysterious Necroslinger who stumbles upon a teenaged girl and her little brother, and becomes their unwilling guardian when they are pursued by the Dead. But the Necroslinger doesn't know the children's secret – a secret that even the Dead fear.

Another entity pursues the children – something that has not walked the Earth for a very long time and lurks just beyond the shadows and the dark, whispering out to the children. He is the Shadow Gunslinger.

Running out spells, the Necroslinger must uncover the heartbreaking truth about the children – before time runs out.

Irene D. says::

"Making movies is hard to do. Making movies people want to see is really hard to do. I think you guys are on to something here."

Stuart A. says::

"Love the name, love the concept and most of all, love that Steampunk look of The Necroslinger."
